DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) - The unveiling of The Norman E. Borlaug World Food Prize Hall of Laureates has kicked off a week celebrating the World Food Prize, which will be awarded later this week in Des Moines.

The Des Moines Register reported the (<http://bit.ly/nHJzA6>) World Food Prize Hall of Laureates was unveiled during a ceremony Sunday, where local and state officials met with the architects, engineers and artists who remodeled the century-old Des Moines library building. It features artwork, murals and the awards Borlaug won.

The World Food Prize was founded by Borlaug, an Iowa native who won a Nobel Peace Prize in 1970 for his work to end world hunger.

World Food Prize President Kenneth Quinn says the building is a dream come true and will help promote economic development, education and tourism.
